Some BAITIANGONG followers say: “it is good enough as sole believer in my family to pray to GOD. Let my children to decide their own faith upon reaching their adulthood!”

Such typical mind set is utterly wrong!

How do we ascertain if our children have been praying to GOD?

In my visit to America, I came across a BAITIANGONG follower whose son prays to GOD merely once a day. Hence, I explained to his son about the significance of twice prayer daily i.e.; once in the morning right after wake up, because should you die in accident while leaving your home, at least you're not too distant from your last prayer and once at night before going to bed for the same reason should you die in your sleep. Regardless of your traveling mode should you die in the forthcoming accident, it is fortunate that you have performed the last prayer before the accident.

Life or death is not the contention, what is the issue then? We must meditate (reflect deeply) on where do our soul go upon our demise?

If our concern is only our own soul, what about our children's soul? We need to ask them, where will their souls end up? Let's have a day for a good chat with our kids, regardless if they are grown up or still young, to explain the importance of praying to GOD.

We should not underestimate kids. Despite their age they are wise anyway. When they're being repeatedly instilled with the importance of praying to GOD, they would abstain from idol worship. Kids behave in such a way has its attributes in their upbringing owing to the environment in understanding the meaning of praying to GOD.

If we are neglectful to impart the importance of praying to GOD to them while they're young, we would never ascertain if our children will continue praying to GOD in their adulthood or after marriage. As a BAITIANGONG follower and responsible parent, how do we address such predicament?

Verily, it doesn't matter whether it's our own children or our siblings, what's important is that we preach BAITIANGONG to them.

A brother named Mike (Singaporean) recount an occasion to me, where in one BAITIANGONG obsequies, while scattering ashes offshore, Bro Chan Yio Hee (deceased's son) (陈有谊) and family members (non-follower) jointly kneeled and prayed to GOD for the deceased's soul.

As such, if the non-believing members in the family were willing to kneel and pray, then what is the reason for failing to preach to them?

In that case, why does Bro Chan Yio Hee (陈有谊) fails to preach BAITIANGONG to his siblings? Bro Mike told me, Bro Chan's siblings knelt to pray to GOD for their mother when they were scattering her ashes, which means Bro Chan managed to convince the siblings to pray to GOD for their mother.

Had Bro Chan convinced the siblings to accept GOD before the demise of their mother, was it possible that the brothers would have accepted BAITIANGONG by now?

Indeed, it is possible, so we have to do our level best in preaching. We must not think that we can't, if we keep repeating that we can't then nothing is achievable; if we think that we can, and then it is possible that we reap the fruit of success, there's no reason that we cannot succeed, so we should stop thinking that we can't, keep focusing that we can. It is just a matter of timing for result bearing.

As long as we are diligent in explaining the importance of BAITIANGONG to them, one day they will attain their spiritual awakening.
